

The New Hartford Land Trust

invites you to its 2011 Annual Meeting and a slide lecture on

Forest Ecology and Management

Presenter:

Thomas Worthley
Assistant Extension Professor
University of Connecticut

Learn the basics of forest ecology, different rationales for woodland management, what programs and other resources are available to landowners, what insect diseases pose threats to our woodlands and more!

Plus the Land Trust will give updates about current projects and priorities.

4:00 p.m.
Sunday, March 6th

Town Hall –
Senior Center

530 Main Street, 3rd Floor
New Hartford, CT 06057

*For more information, e-mail
newhartfordlandtrust@yahoo.com,
call 860-626-0301 or visit www.newhartfordlandtrust.org*

Are you a private landowner who wants to know more about the woodland on or near your property? A hiker who enjoys walking through forested terrain? Are you curious about trees and forest habitat? Come learn from an expert and bring all of your questions.

Tom Worthley's statewide responsibilities include forest stewardship, sustainable forest management, and silviculture on non-industrial, private forestland. He worked in the forest products industry prior to joining UConn and holds B.S. and M.S. Forestry degrees from the University of Maine.

Join us on a late winter Sunday afternoon for a great presentation, updates on the Land Trust, refreshments, and a visit with neighbors!